Once again it has been another busy month for us with no signs of slowing down. We have already over half way to the the same amount of missed calls last year, and summer time is just getting started. We are also find that as other places start to hire full time we are losing members and they are not committing as much time as they are trying to get them selves settled into their new jobs. We have not missed any calls due to not having any staff but the rescue is on another call. The scary thing is, it is just a a matter of time before there is a call that will go unanswered and the rescue will sit in the bay, and we hope that our mutual aid can help us and are not busy themselves.
